

The Six-Conditions Decision Pathways for the Right CX Learning Solution

IF YOU HAVE THESE CONDITIONS...

1. Who or what is incentivizing this learning initiative? What events in the organization have prompted it?

A new CX is being promoted.

The company needs to consider EX because managers do not support their team members' influence on CX.

Salespeople are pushing inventory to buyers.

Mediocre NPS requires a new approach to CX.

There have been unfortunate customer experiences with exclusion.

2. What is the most pressing need to make a positive emotional connection with customers within various customer journeys?

The company wants to be known for a personalized customer experience in messaging and delivery.

Team members are empowered to dissect and deliver customer needs.

Salespeople match the product to the customer's incentives.

Customers feel cared about as individuals.

Employees respect and flex to the diversity among customers.

3. What business needs need to move?

Increased customer base
Increased customer satisfaction

Increased employee retention
Increased customer loyalty
Regular CX innovation

Increased customer relationships
Increase in segmented sales

Increased customer satisfaction
Increased referrals
Increased employee retention

Increased customer loyalty
Decreased customer complaints/transfers to Customer Service

4. How will you plan to measure the needed business impact with a measurement strategy?

Customer data
NPS
Social media activity

ENPS/pulse surveys
NPS
Leader feedback scores
CX collaboration surveys

Repeat clientele
Referrals
Desired segmented accounts
Target product sale volume

NPS
ENPS
New clientele by referrals
Churn rate

Customer data
NPS
Transferred CS calls

5. Which employees are most affected by the change in customer experience approach and the learning solution?

Customer-facing or collateral-creating team members

Managers and team members
Decision-makers

Salespeople

New-hire customer service representatives
Their managers

Customer-facing customer representatives

6. How will the learning strategy make learners, managers, and decision-makers change agents, buying-in on the CX method for and contributing to the desired business impact?

Change agents at any level represent the brand in the new approach to CX.

Managers help shape the change in managerial support of the new CX.

Change agents can use critical thinking to personalize the product to individuals.

Change agents apply critical thinking to innovate changes to both CX and EX.

Change agents champion a new approach to inclusion in CX and EX.
